

The heatmap displays a 15x15 matrix with a color scale from dark red (high values) to light blue (low values). The diagonal elements are dark red, indicating high self-similarity. The matrix shows a block-like structure with varying intensities of red and blue across the cells.

